NEW YORK BAR FOUNDATION PRESENTS GRANT TO WORKER JUSTICE CENTER OF NEW YORK, INC.

The New York Bar Foundation recently presented a grant of $2,000 to Worker Justice Center of New York, Inc (WJCNY). The grant will be used to support the use of technology in providing high-quality legal services.

“The New York Bar Foundation provides critical funding for projects to help ensure the provision of high-quality legal services. It is imperative that WJCNY uses technology to serve the growing number of clients that have a critical need for legal representation,” states executive director Lewis Papenfuse. “The New York Bar Foundation supports WJCNY as it institutes a robust case management system to increase efficiency thus serving more clients, to track outreach activities and training sessions, and allows WJCNY to collect case data crucial to evaluate the provision of legal services.”

“The New York Bar Foundation this year allocated nearly $700,000 in grants to 105 programs across New York, and we have nearly doubled the total dollar amount of grants over the past five years,” said Bar Foundation President John H. Gross. “Foundation leadership has worked hard to increase available funds so that we can continue to assist those in need of legal services across New York State and we are pleased that we are able to offer more assistance.”

New York Bar Foundation grants assist in:

- Increasing public understanding of the law
- Improving the justice system and the law
- Facilitating the delivery of legal services
- Enhancing professional competence and ethics
